After 60 days, the EPA comment period on its propped ethanol mandate increase closed last night. Thanks to you and 3,404 other concerned citizens in the recreational boating industry, we told the government loud and clear: no more ethanol!

And we told 98 Senators and 395 Representatives that we need Congressional action to fix this failed policy. That's 92% of Congress!

And, it's working. Last week Congress held a hearing on the ethanol mandate and invited a representative from the marine industry to testify. We are making a difference!

We expect the EPA to look closely at all comments it has received and make a final decision later this year. It is possible we will call on you again to speak on this issue in this near future—we hope you will!

Thanks again for your efforts, and we hope you are able to spend some quality time on the water!
